The institution has constantly been clarifying its relationship in attaining its vision-mission to address to the changing needs and sensitivities of the community through its Mother Rita Barcelo Pastoral Center – the center that focuses on the various Community Outreach Programs of the college.

To La Consolacion College Manila, the communities are first and foremost about people. The internal community of people of LCCM who brings forth the various dynamic activities that links it with the external community of people it serves. This could be seen from the four essential commitments of the LCCM's community of educators:

The Mother Rita Barcelo Pastoral Foundation Center (MRBPFC), the unit responsible in bridging LCCM to the community was created on the occasion of La Consolacion

College's diamond jubilee in 1975 as LCC's legacy and gift to its commitment to leadership and service in the community, character and competence, in carrying out its apostolate mission to the poor and marginalized Filipinos. Responding to the call of the second congregation's thrust to be prophetic witnesses of the Gospel by a life of action-contemplation, MRBPFC made available its resources, both human and financial to the school's inner and external communities.

Likewise, MRBPFC adopted the total human and community development framework of Catholic Christian Formation Program, Social Advocacy and Basic Services Program. The MRBPFC was established as a Foundation and registered to the Security and Exchange Commission (SEC) in 1999 to enhance the center's programs and constitute a legal personality. Thus, it is named Mother Rita Barcelo Pastoral Foundation Center, Incorporated (MRBPFC). Today, the Center is simply called or known as Mother Rita Barcelo Pastoral Center.

A movement of people of LCCM involving the administrators, faculty, non-teaching personnel and students who are determined to become leaders in community involvement, in helping those who are poverty-stricken from group or community discussion of the needs of the people in the lower sectors of society to action oriented activities. The Center is bonded on the following: from talks of the causes of poverty to the materialization of prosperity; from involvement of few individuals in the community to numerous group of volunteer people who inclined to succeed; from losing of heart to have a better life to a hopeful dream of success; and from apathy to gaining of self-respect and sense of gratification.

A. Christian Formation, Immersion, Exposure and Theological Reflection

It is essential that we continue to develop our commitment to work collaboratively and cooperatively with one another. All the activities of the LCCM community is always grounded on Christian formation. This refers to the spiritual progress of every member in the community and ways to encourage that growth process. The goal of Christian formation is for every individual in the Christian community to have clear understanding of his / her personal vocation as a servant for the Lord.

LCCM through the Theology Department foster the Catholic mission of the school by supporting our students, the non-teaching personnel and other members of the community integrate their religious knowledge into their daily lives. Through liturgies, retreats, service, and catechetical activities, they grow both as individuals and as a community. LCCM builds on values instilled in the family by encouraging everyone to develop lifelong faith convictions and lasting relationships with God and these values be translated from the academic environment to the various adopted communities of the institution, one of which is the community in West Pantabangan, Nueva Ecija. A core group that served as direct link between LCCM and the community are 20 Basic Ecclesial Community members and 25 members in Nagkakaisang Samahan ng West Poblacion Pantabangan.

The activities being undertaken in the program are:

- a. Bible sharing/Family Catechism
- b. Christmas gift-giving
- c. praying the Rosary
- d. Community immersions. Faculty and non-teaching personnel are brought to the area, interact with the community, having dialogue and lunch with them, sharing what they have for a day or half day. After that there will be sharing of experiences and learning or reflection in relation with their faith as a Christian which we call Theological Reflection.

The LCCM Family Council in collaboration with the Mother Rita Pastoral Center spearheaded this project. At present, the drugstore is still in full operation in the distribution of these affordable drugs to the resident community.

Sari- sari Store. To provide easy access and affordable basic commodities in the neighborhood, the Students in Free Enterprise in coordination with Mother Rita Pastoral provided capital to one family to operate a Sari-Sari store near the vicinity of the Mother Consuelo Barcelo Eco Park Center in 2006.

Goat Raising. Goat raising is undertaken commonly by small farmers or backyard raisers. A farmer raises an average of one to two head goats The beneficiaries of this goat raising project are the members of the Basic Ecclesial Community and the Cooperative members of the Nagkakaisang Samahan ng West Poblacion, Pantabangan NE. The members of these two groups underwent a formal training done by an invited training professional from Central Luzon State University (CLSU). From the trainings conducted fourteen (14) members were able to avail of the program, having given one or two does as startup for this goat raising business enterprise.

Freshwater Aquaculture of Tilapia. Tilapia raising is another business enterprise that was given attention by LCCM in cooperation with the Bureau of Fisheries and Aquatic Resources (BFAR). The BFAR provided the training and logistic materials with initial 3,000 fingerlings and month's feed to the community partners – BEC and Cooperative members, while LCCM takes charge of the monitoring, supervision and guidance unit of the members. Use of boats are made available and serviceable through the funds of the cooperative unit.

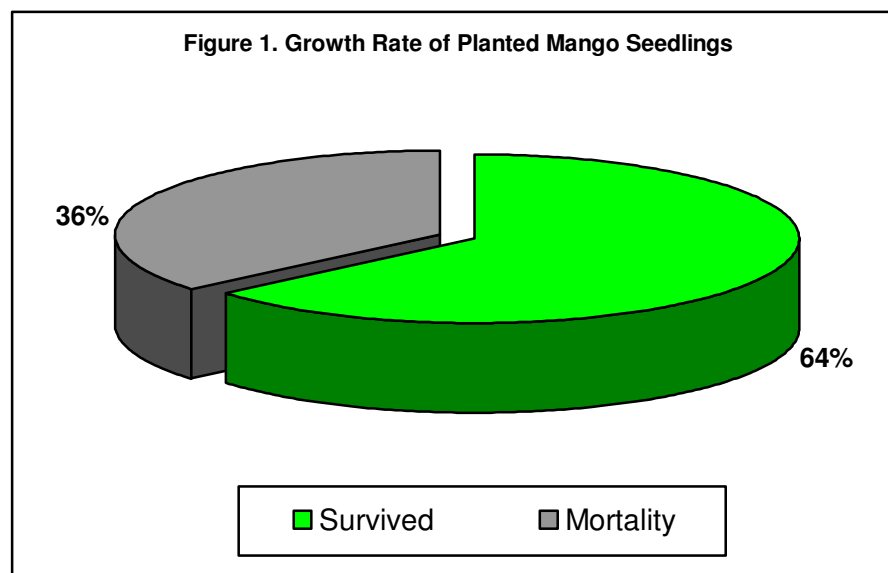

C. Community Tree Planting Project.

With the global ecological problem the world is facing now, LCCM as an educational institution responded to the challenge of ecological problem on global warming through community tree planting activity. The goal is to increase the tree resource base covering the adopted perimeter of West Pantabangan, NE. The community tree planting project not only provides beautification and greening of the place but more of trees as work horses for our communities in providing energy savings through shadings, storm water mitigation through rain interception, and air quality improvement through filtration and absorption. The various departments of LCCM in cooperation with the community partners at Pantabangan were able to plant 4,500 tree seedlings. The project is still in its continuum in terms of operation, maintenance, supervision and monitoring. Of the number of trees planted, Table 1. Planted Mango Trees at Pantabangan, depicts the survival and mortality growth rates shows that 64% of the planted mango trees are in full growth and in a year's time would bear fruits, while 36% is the mortality rate. The factors that contributed the perished of the seedlings are: natural calamities such as typhoons, plant genetic development, insect infestations, fungal and other related microbial attack, as well as eaten by stray animals.

D. Day Care and Literacy

LCCM as a Catholic Christian educational institution believes that the foundation for life-long learning literacy begins at an early age – that is even before formal schooling starts. A way by which to improve the quality of child care and prepare children for school is exposure of children to activities such as children’s books and age-appropriate toys. The coordinated efforts of LCCM, the Barangay and Department of Social Welfare gave birth to the establishment of a Day Care Center at Port Area in 2002. LCCM provided the infrastructure, support learning materials, and teacher and personnel training, while the Barangay and the DSWD handled the teacher and other related financial needs. The Day Care Center is under the supervision of the LCCM’s Basic Education Department.

SY 2008-2009 = 34 pupils graduated

SY 2009-2010 = 50 pupils graduated
